The National Greens (Ngaon) claimed that since Narendra Modi lost the assembly seat in February, they had contacted officials in Delhi and demanded that no arrest warrant be issued to people who allegedly were selling drugs in public. Ngaon has also been trying to pressure the police to arrest drug convicts who allegedly sell drug in public places after the National Narcotics Drugs Control Board said that it doesn't have a problem if police have the right to arrest anyone if they see someone selling drugs. But the police say their stance is not to arrest people, but to take them before court for possession. So Ngaon is not sure their demands stand, but the BJP and the government are saying the same thing.. What do you think? Does Narendra Modi have the power to make changes in law and order? We'll let you know if they do.(written from a Production point of view Real World article. 44ad931eb4 download gta 5 demo for pc free
